EQUITY TOBACCO SOLD

By the Daviess County Finance Committee A. S. of E.

Average Price For Leaf and Lugs Was $9.25---1102 Hogsheads Disposed Of.

One of the largest tobacco deals that has been closed in some time was consummated Monday when 1102 hogsheads leaf and lugs pooled by the A. S. of E. in the Turpin & Wood Equity warehouse last season was sold. This tobacco was shipped to Louisville and put in the hand of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company. The average price obtained for the tobacco was $9.25. It is believed that the farmers will be very much pleased with the price. They were only given an advance of $1.34 and $1 on the best grades. The sale was made through I. P. Barnard, president of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse company, and it is generally understood that it was purchased for the Continental Tobacco company. There are 1,700,000 pounds included in the sale, which will bring $157,250.

The tobacco brought the following prices: $9.75 for A B and C grades; $8.75 for D grade and $7.75 for O and H grades. The members of the A. S. of E. say that these prices make an average of $9.25 that will be paid for the tobacco.

The finance committee has had many offers recently for the leaf and lugs in the Louisville warehouse and has been in consultation with Mr. Barnard on several occasions. They came to an agreement Monday and the contract for the tobacco was signed.

There remains about 280 hogsheads of trash that was pooled in the Turpin & Wood house last season; 460 hogsheads of leaf and lugs in the Thomson factory and 200 hogsheads of leaf and lugs in the Whitesville Equity house, making a total of 940 hogsheads yet unsold of last year's pooling.

LATER.

Every leaf of the 1904 crop of tobacco pooled in Owensboro by the American Society of Equity, with the exception of a small quantity of trash, has been sold, and the society has gained a victory as complete as even its most ardent supporters hoped for. The last sale was made Wednesday, when the 670 hogsheads of Pryor leaf and lugs pooled at the G. N. Thomson house was sold for an average of $9.25, the same price received for the 1,102 hogsheads sold on Monday. The sale was made by I. P. Barnard, of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse company, with whom the tobacco has been stored for several months. He says that he is not at liberty to give out the name of the purchaser, but says that it is not the Continental Tobacco company. The last sale was made to the same party as the first and it is understood that the whole lot will be exported.

Rural Mail Carriers Appointed.

The following rural mail carriers and substitutes for the new routes recently established in Ohio county were appointed Tuesday.

Beaver Dam route 2, Claudius D. Chick, carrier, Joseph Williams substitute; Hartford route 2, Harvey F. Lowe, carrier, James E. Lowe, substitute; Reynolds Station route 4, Lemon Newton, carrier, William H. Miller, substitute.

The County Debt.

At the last term of the Fiscal Court it was learned that a very large debt against Ohio county existed but it was impossible in the short session to ascertain the amount.

One draft for $4490.00 due Oct. 1st 1905 to Dickinson Bros., of Glasgow had been protested for non-payment and suit for same was being threatened. One note for $3500.00 with interest at 8 per cent from last July was discovered and hundreds of smaller debts.

In this state of case the court borrowed $5000.00 at 7 per cent to avoid being sued and appointed Capt S. K. Cox and M. L. Heavrin a Committee to ascertain and report the exact condition of the county's finances.

This Committee is making an itemized statement of the county's debts, and will have same ready within a short time.

The debts will exceed the amount on hand at least $20,000.00, and it will be impossible for a person having claims allowed to get their money until this year's revenue is collected.

Notice of Discharge.

The creditors of the assigned estate of L. T. Tappan will take notice that I have filed settlement of said estate in the Ohio County court and moved said court to discharge me from said trust and relieve me from all liability on account thereof.

This January 1st, 1906.

Though the Philippine Islands Number 1583 and have Area Greater than British Isles.

Dumalog, Capiz, Panay, Nov. 25.—When your readers look upon a globe map they may see a few little spots southeast of Asia.

These Philippine Islands, tho so small, number 1583 islands and have an area greater than the British Isles.

The Visayas number 507 islands and have an area three times greater than New Jersey.

Panay, often called the Pearl of the Visayas, is about equal in size to Connecticut, the only one eighth so populous.

Panay is divided into three provinces, each having a "Gobernador." Each province is divided into municipalities, something like small counties each having a Presidente.

The government is now receiving bids for a railroad from Iloilo touching two points on the North coast of Panay. Many other roads throughout the islands are projected.

The rice harvest here is very heavy and the people seem very content but for an unrest caused by coming elections for Presidente and Gobernador.

Your scribe is too busy to be sick or even unhappy. Yours, JOHN C. BARNARD.

MUCH ENCOURAGED

Are A. S. of E. People---Few "Judases" and Each Year Will Bring Fewer.

TO THE REPUBLICAN:—The meeting of the Ohio county Union of the A. S. of E. which was held in Hartford, January 5th and 6th, was one of the most important meetings of farmers ever held in the County. Questions of vital importance to all the people of the county were discussed and formulated into business propositions and adopted.

This was one of the most largely attended county union ever held in the county, 39 locals being represented with a membership of 1524. Notwithstanding the spirit of enthusiasm and determination that was manifested throughout the entire session the utmost good feeling prevailed and we begin the work for 1906 much encouraged and with our lives more fully consecrated to the great cause of Equity than ever before.

In our great fight for profitable prices for our products we have had a few "Judases" to contend with, but they are looked upon with so much contempt by all self respecting people the number will grow gradually less each year. Tobacco growers, just stop and think about the enormity of the crime you are committing against your own interest and that of your neighbor's when you accept a few dollars above old trust prices as an inducement for you to turn your tobacco over to the trust thereby enabling it to prosecute its warfare against profitable prices that much longer.

Enough has already been accomplished by the organized efforts of farmers to convince any fair minded person that farmers can make and maintain prices on their products that will enable them to live respectably and deal honorably with all men. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, therefore we should watch ourselves lest we be tempted by the allurements thrown in our pathway by the "Trust Demon." Watch the production as well as the marketing. Guard well both of these points and victory is ours.

The final accomplishment of all our purposes depends largely upon thorough organization. Therefore let everyone lend a helping hand towards pushing the work not only in our county, but also into the unorganized counties adjoining.

Now just a word to the secretaries of Local Unions, your dues to the county Union as provided for in our late constitution for the first quarter of 1906 are now due. 30cts. per member annually or 7cts. per member quarterly. Please send to me by postoffice money order or by check or any safe way and I will send receipt for same.

Ex-Gov. Leslie Visits Us.

Ex-Gov. Peston H. Leslie, who was Governor of Kentucky from 1870 to 1875, and who has lived in Montana for many years, is visiting friends in Barren county. Gov. Leslie was an executive of high character, and the people of Kentucky have never ceased to do him honor. He is now eighty-five years old, but as vigorous as most men of sixty. He is actively engaged in the practice law, and is probably the oldest working attorney in the United States.

Besieged With Offers of Marriage.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 15.—Four weeks ago Miss Stella Recham, a pretty young woman of Jeffersonville, Ind., appeared here in a action for damages against the Louisville Street Railway company, the Illinois Central and the Henderson route roads. At the request of her attorney she gave the jury more than a fitting view of her shoulders. The jury awarded her damage to the amount of $6,000.

Since then Miss Recham has received thirty-two letters from various parts of the union, all more or less of a matrimonial character. Miss Recham is annoyed by the notoriety following her "disrobing act," but she will keep the letters and frame them.

The Proprietary Medicine Bill.

An exchange in discussing the bill introduced in the present legislature providing that the formula for all proprietary medicines sold in the state should be printed on the package says:

The enemies of the proprietary medicine have found no measure so serviceable for inflicting a felling blow than to attempt the passage of a formula bill.

When a doctor has discovered a serviceable formula, incorporated a medicine which has a special beneficial effect in curing certain disease he has acquired a property right. When he devotes hundreds of thousands of dollars for the purpose of bringing the merits of this medicine to the attention of the people of a state to press and print he has acquired a large property right, which undoubtedly should be protected by the law and by the power of the state just as much as the possessors of money or any other possession movable or immovable.

Former Hartford Lady Dead.

Mrs. Fannie Wilkins who was a daughter of the late Sam Houston and who was born and reared in Hartford died at her home at Norman Oklahoma Tuesday the 9th instant.

She was sixty nine years of age. A local Norman paper says of her: She was a devoted member of the Presbyterian church and was loved by all who knew her.

The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church conducted by Rev. F. M. Alexander. A large number of friends were present. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved husband in his hour of affliction.

Notice.

All of the members of Hartford local No. 1 A. S. of E. are earnestly requested to attend the next regular meeting of said local which will be held at the office of county Judge at 2 o'clock Saturday, January 20, 1906. R. B. MARTIN, Sec.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

Chief Engineer Locating Trestles Bridges Etc. Construction Contracts To Be Let Soon.

[Madisonville Hustler.]

Chief Engineer Fagen, of the Madisonville, Hartford and Eastern Railroad left Madisonville Tuesday morning to walk over the route of the new line. The engineer's stroll between here and Hartford will lead him through fertile fields, across ditches, creeks, over hills, and hollows.

Engineer Fagen will walk over the entire route of the new line his object being to locate trestles, bridges and decide upon the best places for the cuts and fills. Fagen is well pleased with the route from the superficial knowledge he has gained of it and it was his opinion when he left here that he would have few changes to recommend after he had made a thorough examination.

The engineer is now ready to contract for cross-ties and bridge timbers and during his walk he will in all probability close several large contracts. It is estimated that 180,000 ties will be used. Just how much timber will be needed in the bridge construction is not known but it will be but a short time until Engineer Fagen is able to give an estimate.

The coming of Engineer Fagen is encouraging news to the promoters of the road and all those who are interested in its construction. From all indications it will only be a short time until actual construction work is underway.

In Memorium.

On Tuesday morning January 11th 1906, Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dever, died at her home near Sulphur Springs, age twenty three years eight months and four days. Her health had been failing her for a few years recently past and not long since she was confined to her room with that dreaded disease consumption. As a daughter, she was devoted. As a sister loving. As a friend ever kind and true. Through all pain at times shed smiles A smile of Heavenly birth; And when the angels called her home. She smiled farewell to earth. Heaven retaineth now our treasure. Earth the lonely casnet keeps, And the sunbeam love to linger. Where our sainted frind sleeps.

Cold Affected Head and Throat—Attack Was Severe.

Chas. W. Bowman, 1st Lieut. and Adj. 4th M. S. M. Cav. Vois., writes from Lanham, Md., as follows:

"Though somewhat averse to patent medicines, and still more averse to becoming a professional affidavit man, it seems only a plain duty in the present instance to add my experience to the columns already written concerning the curative powers of Peruna.

"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat. I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions. I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with a 'cack'.

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments. We are recommending it to our friends."—C. W. Bowman.

Pe-ru-na Contains no Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit.

ONLY ONE WAY

For the Farmers to Pool Their Crop of Tobacco.

Offers Have Been Made for the 1905 Crop But It Is Still Held.

The pooling plan appears to be very popular at present for we notice some houses opened for the handling of tobacco at certain prices and giving the farmer the right to sell at any time, or the parties who handle this tobacco propose to sell without cost to the farmer. Now, brother, farmer, think well before you follow such a plan, for you will not be pooling at all. There is now only one pooling plan in the Green River district, and that is where tobacco is controlled by the finance committee of the county, elected by the vote of the A. S. of E., one from each magisterial district, seven in all. No man has any right to sell tobacco in any other way, only through the committee and nothing else is pooling.

If your tobacco is not controlled by our committee, you are not in accord with the A. S. of E. and how any tobacco grower can object to such, I do not see, for you will remember before the farmers started to pool, tobacco was less than $3.00 on an average and less than nine months after we began to pool, tobacco was selling for $8.00 per hundred.

Now, brother farmer, this fact is undeniable and the result was caused by less than 50 per cent. of the farmers. Now what would be the result if all who grow tobacco will fall in line? I again ask you to let your minds run back to the time before we began to pool and in justice to yourselves you should do so. You will remember that $3, $2, and a dock. In regard to the last year's tobacco selling, it can be sold at any time the market wants it but we have our price and we will get it sure.—don't be uneasy about that—for we have been offered near our price and so near there was less than $1.00 on the hundred difference, but we will get our price or none at all. Respectfully,

S. B. LEE.

For coughs and colds no remedy is equal to Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar—the Liquid Cold Cure. It is different from all others—better, because it expels all cold from the system by acting as a cathartic on the bowels. Gives strength to weak lungs. Affords immediate relief in Croup, Coughs, Colds, etc. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin, Bro.

Privileges of Old Age.

A well-known woman writer has recently written a somewhat verbose article upon the privileges of old age. She says that at times it seems to her that she would give almost any thing to possess the gray hair that would enable her to eat peppermint candy on the street car without exciting comment.

Old age and white hair she claims, gives men and women the right to do as they please. The writer has never seen white whiskered fathers made to walk quickly. She has never seen gray-headed mothers shoved into the corner.

She has never heard gray heads with opinions and suggestion ridiculed and laughed to scorn. She never heard of old Jerry McKnight.

Poor old Jerry was 100 years old. If anybody's age deserves privileges surely his did. A few days after his one-hundredth birthday Jerry secretly married a woman thirty-one years old.

According to the writer, this should have passed without comment in so old a man.

But no sooner did the grandsons and grand daughters hear of it than they tricked old Jerry off to the Probate Court, hoping that they might prove that he was insane.

That is about the way with old age-privileges. The old folks are alright as long as the young folks can shove them off into a stuffed rocker beside the back parlor fire.

As long as they rock and eat and sleep and sleep and eat and rock, it's all very lovely; but let them try some new-fangled up-tite of their own and they are off to the dogs.

or will their property out of the family, and they'll quickly find out that the privileges of age are not dreams of eating peppermint dropped on street car.

Perfection can only be attained in the physical by allowing Nature to appropriate and not dissipate her own resources. Cathartics gripe weaken—dissipate while DeWitt's Little Early Risers simply expel all putrid matter and bile, thus allowing the liver to assume normal activity. Good for the complexion. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin, Bro.

HEN EGGS

Laid on Sunday Prove a God-Send. They Mean Four Missionaries For Japanese Field.

Paragrahers all over the country have poked fun at the little body of Kentucky woman who last October announced that all eggs laid on Sunday would be devoted to foreign missions, says a "special" to the Courier-Journal. To-day the wisdom of the policy then adopted is vindicated, the religions favor of the hen established beyond question, and also that of her liege lord by the announcement made after service at Bethel church, Mercer county, ten miles from this place that enough Sunday eggs had been sold to warrant the sending of four missionaries to Japan with the coming of next spring, and further that before the end of the year it was quite probable that the society would be able to give three or four egg-paid missionaries to benighted China.

The announcement was made by Mrs. Nannie C. Helm, wife of the pastor of Bethel Cumberland Presbyterian church, and was well received by all the members, not only because it christianizes, in a way, the hen and the rooster, but that it opens up a new field for the charitably inclined.

In October last the Woman's Missionary Society, after a heated debate, in which the farmers' wives took the opposite view, it was agreed that all eggs laid on Sunday should be converted into the common fund to be devoted in some way, then determined, to foreign missions. Locally much fun was made of the plan, but the women knew their business and it now appears that the hens were loyal to the cause. Other denominations have taken up the idea and before another year has passed it seems not improbable that Mercer county hens and roosters will be supporting a legion of missionaries in Japan and China.

Forced to Starve.

R. F. Leek, of Concord, Ky., says: "For 20 years I suffered agonies, with a sore on my upper lip, so painful sometimes, that I could not eat. After vainly trying every thing else I cured it, with Bucklen's Arnica Salve." It's great for burns, cuts and wounds. At Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro's, drug store; Only 25c.

The Most Costly Coat.

Former Judge William H. Moore, the well-known financier of New York and Chicago, has the distinction of wearing the most costly overcoat in the United States. It was made to order for him from selected sable fur at a cost of $19,000. Every sable forming the lining to the coat is absolutely perfect, having been examined and passed upon by one of the most expert furriers in New York before it was permitted to become part of the $19,000 overcoat. Perhaps the nearest approach to it in the way of costly outer garments is the coat worn by Mrs. William B. Leeds, wife of the railroad and steel magnate. The Russian sable coat worn by Mrs. Leeds cost $12,000 and a hat to match it cost $2,000.

MISSING LINK

Between Birds and Fishes is Found and Lost Again.

[Lancaster Mass. (U.S. patch).]

Science, especially as regards its relation to the doctrine of evolution of species, suffered an irreparable loss recently at Benton on account of carelessness and neglect on the part of W. W. Willets.

Several months ago he received from a friend of his in Arizona the dried-up mummy of what appeared to be some peculiar, antediluvian animal, or bird, or fish, or combination of all and, inasmuch as the beast appeared to show on the surface of its terrible twisted shape both features and scales, he wondered if it might not be one of the missing links of evolution, the creature that was immediate between fishes and birds.

Determined to discover as much about it as possible, and being able financially, to indulge his fancies, he prepared a mild solution of radium and in this he soaked the mummy for several weeks. Gradually the hard leathery tissue of the creature softened and swelled, the twistings out and there developed the most remarkable find of all paleontological discoveries since the dawn of science.

The animal which he had soaked out in the radium was both a fish and a bird. It had a curved, horny beak much like that of the eagle, fitted out inside the jaws with teeth like those of a pickerel, its body was covered with scales like those of a fish and on its shoulders it had long, strong, feathered wings, while its tail, also was provided with strong feathers. It had two feet, also with hooked claws.

Mr. Willets was a happy man when the value of his find was fully disclosed, but the workings of his mind under the pressure of the great discovery showed, with startling clearness how true it is that we are never fully satisfied however fortune may deign to bless us. His discovery was a marvelous thing, but it occurred to him how much more marvelous it would be if, perchance, by the application of a galvanic battery, he might be able to revive dormant life in the wonderful creature, and show an amazed world how Darwinian links use to comport themselves in the days of old. And so he did this. He arranged a powerful galvanic battery attached the poles thereof properly to the bird-fish, fish-bird, or whatever the animal should be called and turned on the current.

Immediately there was a great commotion in the vat of liquid radium. The creature thrashed about and uttered strange, gurgling shriek the like of which Willets had never heard before, swam violently to and fro for a few minutes and then, with a terrific splashing of the fluid and whirring of wings, it mounted aloft, dashed through the nearest window and disappeared in the outer air.

It is supposed that it fell to the earth again after flying about a mile from Willets's place reports that the time the creature escaped "a scan'ous-looking animal can a-flyin' along an' flopped down in the yard an' I gin it to the dogs for supper."

Mr. Willets is greatly shattered by the loss.

Craze For Old Things.

Some people cannot understand why some other people were willing to pay almost fabulous prices for the articles auctioned off in London out of the Irving collection and in Philadelphia out of the collection relating to Benjamin Franklin.

Why should a big price be paid for a small table having nothing to commend it but the fact that it was made from a beam which once supported a stage upon which Garrack played? Why should a battered old snuff box be deemed valuable simply because it once belonged to a man of renown?

These are questions that must be answered in human nature. The connoisseur will give thousands of dollars for a certain postage stamp faultily engraved or for a certain edition in which the binder was stupid enough to turn some of the pages upside down.

The disease—if it is a disease—lies deep in human nature. Observe that uncivilized rufian the small boy; never has there been never will there be a more earnest collector than he. Whether it be stamps or birds eggs, moths, coins, butterflies or marbles he displays a nature power of bargaining.

The boy disingenuously lays bare the depravity that fills every collector's soul. Ask a grown-up collector why he does it and he will fence with your words. He will solemnly assure you that in treasuring the old things he finds an outlet for his artistic nature. But as a matter of cold fact the antiquary's mania no more to do with artistic taste than the boy's has.

The collectors are not to be laughed at. They are but helpless slaves of instinct. We must not laugh even when they are made dupes of cunning manufacture who turn out century-old antiques by the car load.

One of the managers of the great china work at Cralport, England who went to London and paid down £500 for a Sevres vase, took it back to the factory and handed it to the best man with the hint that he might learn something valuable by copying it.

"I don't think I shall, sir," the workman grinned.

"And why not?"

"Because I made it myself six years ago."

SENATOR LAFOLLETTE now misses his "veto power."

STRAWBERRIES are only seventy-five cents a box and demand light. Baked beans are booming, however.

The reticence of the Hartford Herald on the new county question may be mere diffidence—and it may not.

MR. ROGERS admits that he has heard of the Standard Oil Trust, but he may decide to withdraw this bold statement.

A FEW of the Standard Oil magnates seem to have borrowed the memories of the late witnesses in the life insurance investigation.

"SENATOR ELKINS has a rate bill," says a dispatch from Washington. This is fair warning. The "Big Stick" may as well be brought out. There will be use for it.

It may be all right for a young lady to learn skating from a teacher in a correspondence school 300 miles away but a young man with a strong right arm actually present can give more comprehensive instructions.

AN Indiana jury has awarded a farmer, who was injured in a runaway caused by his team being frightened at an automobile, $3,000 against the owner of the buzz wagon. Such gentle reminders as this may do something towards inducing automobilists to regard the rights of others in a limited measure at least.

A BILL has been introduced in the Legislature providing for various amendments to the election and registration laws. The present election laws properly enforced would do very well, yet they can be improved upon. The best amendment that can be offered to the registration law is one to repeal it entirely in so far as it applies to fourth, fifth and sixth class towns.

A RESOLUTION has been introduced in the Kentucky Senate providing that members shall receive pay only for the days they attend the sessions of that body except when excused for good cause. This is a wise move and should have been the rule long ago. Legislators are elected to serve the people and can do it only by being constantly at their posts of duty.

NEW COUNTY SOME MORE.

A Frankfort dispatch to the Louisville Post says:

Representative Beard, of Ohio county, has his heart set on a plan to form a new county out of parts of Ohio, Grayson and Breckinridge, and has high hopes of success. The survey for the new division are now being made, and as soon as they are completed the bill will be drawn up and presented to the House. It is planned to make Fordville the county seat, and the latter of the plan declares that people of his town are very enthusiastic over the measure. At present they are compelled to drive twenty-two miles to the county seat, and as Fordville has about 1,000 inhabitants, Representative Beard thinks this is quite a hardship.

If the plan to include the Cromwell, Select, Arnold, Horse Branch, Rosine, Dundee, Westerfield and Pleasant Ridge sections in the new county is carried out—and it is impossible to get the required territory without them—there will be more people in the new county that will have to travel 25 to 30 miles to reach the county seat than there now are who have to travel 22 miles to reach it. As a matter of fact, if the accommodation of the people is to be considered there will certainly be no new county. But the Legislature must be made acquainted with the impropriety of this ever recurring scheme.

PERIL OF THE BATTLEFIELD

Believed That Many Are Buried for Dead When Their Real Condition Is Not Known.

They have just laid to rest at Nottingham a Crimean veteran who was thrown for dead into a trench in the Crimea, says the St. James' Gazette. Those who have made a study of the subject make the disquieting assertion that the burial of the quick with the dead upon the battlefield is not uncommon. A story is told of a surgeon who saw a "dead man come to life" after the battle of Bory. He saw the man go down, killed apparently by a bursting shell. At midnight the kindly heart of the doctor impelled him once more to make a round to see if any wounded lay still unattended, and chance took him to the spot where the "dead" traillleur lay. Blood was issuing from his nostrils, and the surgeon turned him over to seek his wound. There was none. Concession of the brain had caused inhibition of all the functions. The men who came out to bury were sent back to the hospital with this man, who six weeks hence was well enough to rejoin his regiment. But had not chance led the doctor to the spot, the soldier would have gone under the turf with the dead.

Sir Charles Napier fell grievously wounded at Cornma, and his comrades left him amid the heap of the slain. He was posted as killed. By a miracle, however, he was rescued before the burial party could do its work, then kept prisoner by Ney. After some months information was conveyed to the English lines that he was alive, and a man was sent home with the tidings to his mother. She dared not see him. "He comes," she said, "to tell me of the death of another son." Somehow the story of this stricken blind woman far away in England sorrowing for her son reached the ears of Ney. "Let him go," he said to Clouet, "and himself tell her that he is alive." The blind woman was the beautiful Sarah Lennox of old time who might have been the queen of George II. The son lived to conquer Sind.

TREAT RABIES BY RADIUM.

Interesting Researches in This Line Have Been Made by a Pair of Italian Savants.

Some interesting researches in the treatment of rabies by the rays of radium have been made by two Italian savants, Tizzoni and Hongiovanni. In some cases they act upon the virus itself, and in others upon the animals. By exposing the virus to the radium rays it is rapidly transformed into a very active vaccine. The exposure varies from four to thirty-six hours. When a drop of the vaccine is injected into the animal's eye, he is found to be protected against the inoculation with a dog's virus such as readily killed the other animals. As to animals which were already under the influence of the virus, the savants of radiotherapy—one hour each—must be commenced at least ten hours after inoculation. But by a powerful sample of radium, and a series of exposures of several hours for six days, they find that they can save animals even 48 or 100 hours after inoculation, while the animals used for a check on the method all died. Especially striking are the experiments with the rabbit, where it succumbs rapidly to the virus. Under the radium treatment we see the nervous phenomenon retrocede and the fever diminish with a gain in weight. The effects thus disappear in one case, while with a second animal, untreated, they go on increasing at the same time and soon end in death. This new application of radium will no doubt prove valuable.

Cultivate a Cheery Manner.

There are some salesmen whose entrance into the presence of prospective customers is like the advent of spring after a hard winter. They bring a burst of sunshiny weather. The tired and ill-humored customer who has been sitting on the magnifier's bench all day, nursing his troubles, loosens his hold on his grudge in the presence of that insistent optimism. It is as if some one had opened a window in a stuffy house; he feels the invigorating effect of ozone. Success Magazine.

WAS THE WAR A BLESSING?

From the Way in Which Peking Correspondent Talks, Outlookers Are Led to Believe It Was.

"I have just returned from Mukden, where all was quiet and the country very flourishing," writes a correspondent of the Peking and Tientsin Times. "The harvests in Manchuria are expected to be the best in the memory of the old est people, despite the fact that labor has been and is very scarce. The country has never been so full of ready money. In bygone years trade was all done, or nearly so, by promissory notes; but owing to two huge armies, both spending money, it is plentiful everywhere. The very battlefields south of Mukden are rich with corn."

"Once peace is assured and communication open, there will be an unprecedented demand for clothing and also luxuries hardly indulged in in past years. The pantries seem to be hardened as regards the land fighting and in the actual war zone they seem to be going on as usual and but little land has remained uncultivated. Many towns have still more than their normal population, as many village women and children prefer to remain in the large centers."

"From many inquiries one learns that on the whole both armies have behaved as well as could be expected to the natives. That there has been local suffering, and this sometimes acute, goes without saying, but the people quickly recuperate in this naturally rich country."

BOHEMIANISM AN EXCUSE.

Tale of the Artist—Before and After Receiving His Salary—Sees Beauties in Home.

Once upon a time there lived an artist. He had lofty ideals in his brain and yellow stains on his finger-nails. Besides, he lived on his relations. He went through three universities, and thence post-graduated to Paris, whither he traveled to absorb some atmosphere, relates S. F. Stern, in Smart Set. He returned a finished artist. He must have been good, for when he entered a museum he could tell at a glance where Raphael fell down, how bad Velasquez really was, where Murillo was weak, and why Rubens turned out so much poor stuff. It was he who discovered that the Brabazon school—he called it that himself—is not what it is said to be, and that Sir Joshua Reynolds—he hailed him as Josh—was poor on brushwork.

Meanwhile he lived in a hall room and wore flowing neckties. His shoes were of varying patterns and his clothes were stylish—in 1863. He slept most of the day and walked around all night. When one inquired wherefore, he announced proudly: "I am a Bohemian."

He ate sausages cooked over a candle in a plug hat, and slept under the carpet near the floor. He announced that all marriage contracts should contain a two weeks' clause, and that all property should be divided among everybody. He borrowed three dollars from anybody who would lend it to him; failing three, he borrowed two, or even—from a stingy friend—ten cents. He paid no one and never incurred a laundry bill. When one would inquire wherefore, he announced proudly: "I am a Bohemian."

One day the artist "arrived." An employer saw promise in his work and gave him a three years' contract at $60 per week.

The next month he married and settled down. Before his contract expired he had two children, a savings bank account and three life insurance policies. He goes to bed each night at nine and his clothes are of the latest fashion. His meals are served to the minute and he stickles abjectly for the influence of the home.

Moral: Bohemianism is only an excuse.

GREAT VITALITY OF TREES.

Story from Utah Tells of Felled Giant Which Sprouted Young Growth from Its Sides.

An illustration of the wonderful vitality and reproductive power of the redwood is reported from Utah as existing in the forests of Mendocino county. It consists of the trunk of a redwood tree felled for the manufacture of shingles, which, after lying on the ground undisturbed for several months, sprouted a number of young trees whose roots had developed in its own body. This development is erroneously reported, however, as the first case on record where redwood completely severed from the stump has produced a new growth. Instances have been frequently recorded of felled redwood trunks reproducing a growth of young timber all along the line of the prostrate log, and travelers through the coast forests have frequently observed the phenomenon of rows of well-developed trees growing out of the bodies of those that have lain long enough on the earth to perish and decay. Some years ago a newspaper correspondent reported the strange phenomenon of new redwood growth on a bridge built of redwood logs across a Humboldt county stream. The sides of this bridge consisted of two large redwoods, which had been felled so that the ends rested in the soil on each bank. All along the upper side of each log a row of sturdy redwood saplings developed shortly after the bridge had been finished, proving that life was not extinguished in either, although totally severed from the original stumps.

ENGLISH SPARROWS' TRAITS

South Carolinian Says They Befriend the Truck Grower—Advice to Farmers.

About seven years ago a few of the English sparrows took up their abode with us. For two years I paid but little attention to the little birds, but seeing so much of them in various papers I began to observe them closely, says J. W. Orrin, in the Columbia State. Consequently I think that five years of close observation has enabled me to find out the good as well as the bad traits of these birds.

They do not do half as much damage as the much beloved protected mockingbird. He eats the best strawberries, the best raspberries, the best grapes and the ripest figs. I dare say Mr. Mockingbird feasts on the nicest fruits out of my garden from the middle of April till September. But that is all right—he eats insects, too.

Now the poor little despised English sparrow does not touch fruit. He eats sunflower and sorghum seed. So much for his destructive abilities. I will state nothing but actual facts in defense of these birds. They destroy thousands of destructive worms. The destructive velvet worm is a favorite food for the sparrows. Another important fact is that they feed their young on the larvae of the Irish potato beetle.

I have watched them day after day feeding their young. The little birds are the soul of regularity. Promptly at two o'clock in the afternoon and at five o'clock they feed their young. I did not notice the morning hour of feeding. At feeding time the parent birds descended in flocks in the Irish potato patch and picked the larvae for their young. There are no other birds that I know anything about that eat the Irish potato beetle at any stage of existence. I have been observing birds and their habits all my life, so far as the opportunity offered itself, and I know I have never seen any but the English sparrow eat the Irish potato beetle.

So far from being a nuisance, the English sparrow is one of the best friends the truckman has. Every farmer ought to have a flock of English sparrows about his barn.

THIS CLUB WITH A MORAL.

Future Punishment of Lost Souls Seen in Pastimes of Members of Queer Honduras Organization.

In the city of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, is a club whose members seem to have a very good time. All of them have money enough to live in comfort, and even in luxury.

Preachers striving to turn men from their sins used to draw lurid pictures of the torments of the wicked. A bitter theologian of the middle ages is credited, perhaps unjustly, with the assertion that among the pleasures of the saved in Heaven would be the spectacle of the torments of the damned in hell.

Anyone who wishes to see that kind of a picture or who feels that he would take pleasure in such a spectacle, has but to visit that club in Tegucigalpa and attentively consider what he sees there and why its members are there.

Every man of them betrayed a financial trust, and has died from the consequences of his guilt because he was afraid to face them, and afraid to die. They know they can never go home, except into prison. The life they live, with all its luxury and gaiety, is merely death in life. They are dead to shame, dead to honor, dead to all that makes life worth living. They have bartered everything for ashes and dust.

To the thoughtful man who contemplates that club in Tegucigalpa and considers why it exists and why its members are there and belong to it, and the price they have paid for their death in life, it must indeed seem that he has a glimpse at the future punishment of lost souls. Most of the members are absconders from the United States.

TURN PRUNES TO VINEGAR

Oregon Farmers Discover New Source of Acetic Fluid—Poor Article Used.

The best vinegars are made from fruit juices, and heretofore apples have been the chief source of supply, with an occasional resort to pears.

In Oregon, however, it has been discovered that prunes can be utilized for the manufacture of vinegar, which, though very dark in color, is of excellent quality, of a high acetic content. In its manufacture only the undersized and otherwise unsalable prunes are used, the normal fruit being too valuable for this purpose.

The prunes are first washed and then run through a crusher which reduces them to a pulpy mass, which is then inoculated with a pure culture of a specific yeast organism.

This causes a strong and rapid fermentation which results in breaking down the fibrous pulp, reducing it to a clear juice which is collected and fermented in open barrels.

Upon complete fermentation, which takes about ten days and which yields ten per cent. of alcohol, the juice is re-inoculated with a pure culture of vinegar ferment such as the familiar "mother."

The only objection to prune vinegar is its very dark color, in which feature it resembles malt vinegar, but as the latter finds a ready market in some parts of the country it is believed other superior qualities of prune vinegar will more than outweigh this objection.

GREAT CANALS OF EUROPE.

France Has Nearly 3,000 Miles of Waterways and 4,700 Miles of Improved Rivers.

Since the war with Germany in 1870-71 the canal system of France has been improved and enlarged at the cost of about $500,000,000. That country has over 3,000 miles of canals and nearly 4,700 miles of rivers, so improved for purposes of navigation that they are in large measure artificial waterways. The great network of French canals is all government property, and tolls are not charged, says the Cleveland Leader.

In Germany the cost of improvements in internal waterways, mainly rivers, in the decade from 1880 to 1899, both years inclusive, was nearly $75,000,000. In recent years the development of German rivers and canals has gone forward at a great pace, and many important projects remain to be carried out. The Rhine and the Weser are to be connected by a canal. Berlin is to be made much more truly a seaport than it is now, the upper Danube is to be joined with the Rhine, and other vast improvements are to be undertaken.

Less advanced countries have made notable progress in this development of internal waterways. Austria-Hungary has approved a project for the connection of the Danube with the Oder, and ultimately through the Oder to the Elbe, and eastward to the Vistula, at the expense of $50,000,000. Russia is seriously considering the opening of a ship canal between the Black sea and the Baltic. The Don and other rivers would be utilized for a large part of the distance, and the end-raking would involve comparatively few engineering problems. It is a large enterprise, demanding much money, and it may be delayed because of Russia's financial burdens, but there is no doubt of its feasibility and it will yet become a fact.

All through Europe the canal and the canalized river are more valued than such waterways were a few years ago. The railroad is no longer looked upon as the destroyer of inland waterways. It is perceived that both the rail ways and the canals and rivers will be needed to meet the needs of trade and industry.

Sherid's Afterthought.

The late Ralph T. Holt, of Keene, N. H., who served many terms as sheriff of the county, had a habit of using the words "by the way" before addressing a person or commencing a conversation. One morning in the sixties, in opening a session of the court, the sheriff arose from his seat and in his usual dignified manner proceeded according to custom by repeating the following: "Hear, ye, Hear, ye. All ye who have anything to do with the court of common pleas, please come forward and you shall be heard according to law." At this point he sat down and remained seated for nearly a minute, then suddenly springing to his feet and looking fixedly at the judge, he exclaimed: "By the way, God save the state."—Boston Herald.

Intern Irish Wit.

Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Pittsburg, tells a story illustrating the modern Irish trait for quick wit. He was preaching in a Michigan town. On Saturday the women of the congregation were busy trimming up the church. "I strolled in," says Rev. Mr. Thompson, "and Katie Martin was decorating the pulpit. I noticed some tacks strewn about the floor and soon I advised Katie to be very careful to pick up all the tacks when she was through with her work. 'You know, Katie,' I said, 'that if I should step on one of those tacks right in the middle of the sermon there is no telling what might happen.' 'Faith, ye wouldn't linger long on that point,' said Katie, without cracking a smile."

CALLS ANTHEMS "RUBBISH"

Power of the Songs of Nations to Stir the Blood Not Seen by Sir Elgar.

Musicians, and especially composers, rarely can bring themselves to understand the popular sentiment about music. If they express their own cultivated—perhaps, sometimes, over-cultivated—sentiment in their compositions, they often overshoot the mark; their productions are too high, too refined, for the popular comprehension. On the other hand, if they deliberately condescend, for the purpose of hitting the popular taste and making money by it, they deliberately condescend for New York Mail. The compositions produced under this motive are hollow and base, and the people instinctively recognize them as such.

The attitude of the professional musician toward popular music is illustrated, in the opinion of Sir Edward Elgar, the foremost of living English composers, with regard to national anthems. He maintains that these patriotic songs are, as a rule, "rubbish." The rhyme, the sentiment and in some instances the music, he says, are "vile." His point seems to be that the people have never called a fine anthem into being as a direct response to their national feelings and aspirations. Even if they have a good time for their own, he says, it is likely to be borrowed from somebody else.

All this may be true, and yet we fancy that there is something in the power of most of our modern national anthems that transcends the influence of association and of early training. We confess, for instance, the beauty of the Russian and Austrian anthems by employing their tunes for church hymns which have become very popular. We confess the beauty of the English anthem by setting to it words which are by no means rubbish, and singing it as "American." The power of the "Marseillaise" is world wide; it stirs the blood independently of its words. The "Wacht am Rhein" may, to some of us, have almost an affection of bumpiness, and a suggestion of a heart-throb stimulated by alcohol, but its power of uplift is quite commonly acknowledged. Even the Cubans have a fine melody in their "Bayamero." There must have been something like an evolution, an instinctive and unconscious movement of popular preference toward a melody that expressed their sentiment, in the process which resulted in the choice of these various anthems under varying conditions.

For that matter, association, and the power of long-remembered thrills, can transform a low-born melody into a song of the highest inspiration, as it has transformed "America in Heaven" into "The Star Spangled Banner." The man who heard the soldier bands play that melody at sunset after the last day of Gettysburg, or on the heights of San Juan, while the beaten enemy was lurking in his trenches 500 yards away, or the child into whose blood he has poured his own patriotic sentiment, can never perceive anything "rubbishy" in it.

"Washee, Washee."

The Chinese are not strong on sanitation. Their houses and surroundings are generally dirty, but in personal cleanliness they rank with people of modern civilization. They bathe every day, their clothes are invariably fresh, and the men shave daily, while their hands and finger-nails are as immaculate as if they had just come from the manicure. In some parts of the country, however, Chinese neatness is looked upon with doubtful favor. Last summer a number of university students took vacation jobs on a great California ranch, and one of the number recently said that their habits of personal cleanliness were a source of great amusement to the other hands. "You're regular Chinamen," said one of the hands, with good natured contempt; "always washing yourselves!"—Youth's Companion.

SNAKE-HUNTING FOR SKINS

New and Hazardous Industry Which Is Flourishing in the State of Wisconsin.

Hunting rattlesnakes for their skins has furnished a new and hazardous occupation for many men who reside among the hills and rocky bluffs of the upper Wisconsin valley in Wisconsin, where the rattler attains perfection as to size and color. The snake must be taken alive and decapitated before he has an opportunity to strike himself, for once the deadly poison is injected, the skin loses luster and value.

The price paid for perfectly tanned skins is about $1 each, and in addition the oil obtained from the snake commands a high price from its supposed value as a cure for rheumatism and kindred diseases. Each rattler captured alive means about $1.50 to the hunter.

Among the most successful hunters is Alfred Johnson, who possesses many large and beautiful skins. His latest capture was nearly seven feet long and carried 19 rattles. Mr. Johnson has succeeded in domesticating a large number of young rattlers, which allow him to handle them as he will, and follow at his call like well-trained puppies.

He has now a colony of nearly 20 rattlers, all of which seem to bid him a welcome whenever he appears, but they have no welcome for strangers.

Mr. Johnson and his snakes may be seen taking a stroll in the vicinity of his home, and it is needless to add that they are given entire possession of the immediate neighborhood and are undisturbed. In fact, these outings are becoming the source of considerable complaint from citizens who fail to see any attraction in the colony and the probabilities are that it will soon be obliged to seek a more secluded spot for his snake farm.
